WARNING TO AUTOISTS IS ISSUED BY POLICE

Must Obey Law in All Respects Within Charleroi Borough

MOTORCYCLISTS HIT

Same Rules to Apply to Them —Complaints of Overspeeding Made

Chief of Police C. W. Albright has sounded a note of warning to autoists and motorcyclists in asking them to obey strictly the provisions of the law concerning the operation of such vehicles. In enjoying autoists and motorcyclists to obey the law, he quotes from the latest Pennsylvania statues.

According to the law, it is necessary to operate carefully on congested or built up portions of a town at a rate of speed not to exceed more than one mile in five minutes, which amounts to 12 miles an hour. On highways not in congested distances a speed of one mile in 2 1-2 minutes is permitted.

One of the necessary things is to blow horns at corners. This is one part of the law in the obedience of which some motoroists have been lax. it is asserted. Also it is asserted that some of them have been overspeeding [illegible] of these necessary violations that the warning has been issued.

The excessive use of the "muffler, cut-out or other signal devices when approaching or pasing any other vehicle or animal of draft or burden is prohibited. The operation of a motor vehicle by an intoxicated man carries with it a fine of from $100 to $300. This is the usual fine for violation of the state automobile laws.

Chief of Police Albright has the following to say:

"The driver of any motor vehicle should use great caution in the driving of his car and always be watching ahead for approaching vehicles. The careful driver is in as much danger as the reckless driver. The danger is in making a turn or at a crossing. The operator of a vehicle when approaching such should change his gear, therefore reducing the speed of his machine and he should blow his horn and be watching ahead. If drivers would only observe the law collisions would very seldom happen.

"The trouble with the drivers is that when approaching a turn or crossing they make the turn or crossing with the machine running in high speed, not liking to change their gear, and the other operator whom he meets on the turn or crossing does the same. therefore the rate of speed and the distance makes the accident unavoidable.

"There are motorcyclists who are running without horns and at a greater speed than the law allows. making it dangerous for the traveling public and their own lives. Some who have horns neglect to blow them where the law requires them to do so. The collision at Fourth street would have been avoided last Sunday had the operator of the motorcycle blown his horn and checked his speed at the crossing. I have never seen a colli-

Secure Site For Factory

Bollinger Bros. of Newell Purchase Property in Pittsburg District

R. W. Cooke, industrial agent of the Pennsylvania Lines West, announces that Bollinger Brothers, Incorporated of Newell, Pa., have purchased from Charles A. Dickson a factory site of five acres bordering on the Pennsylvania lines in Eleventh street and Duss avenue, Economy. The firm manufactures coal supplies, coal washers and coal handling machinery. It will erect on the site two brick and steel buildings, each 120 by 240 feet, and a foundry with a cupola of 25 tons capacity. Construction will be started at once and it is expected the work will be completed in six months. The firm employs 125 men and the force will be increased when the new buildings are occupied.

Bollinger Brothers is the firm that this month sold a site at Newell to the P. & L. E. Railroad for car repair shops.

WELFARE MEETING IS HELD

Washington Minister and Attorney Speak to Charleroi Audience

DISCUSS LOCAL AFFAIRS

While other meetings were being held at Claysville and Canonsburg, a public welfare meeting was conducted at the Charleroi high school auditorium Tuesday evening by the United Temperance league of Washington county. Two Washington speakers, Rev. C. L. McKee and O. S. Chalfant, Esq., made addresses and Rev. F. A. Richards, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church spoke briefly. The chairman of the meeting was Dr. J. W. Manon.

Rev. McKee and Attorney Chalfant came in place of Harry F. Moore Esq., and J. R. McCreight, Esq., who were programmed to address the Charleroi meeting. Rev. McKee referred to the movement of opposition to the liquor traffic as a safety first movement. He said that under the old system it has been a question too much of the dollar above the man, and he declared this order should be changed so that it would be the man above the dollar. He said there were but two reasons for the liquor traffic —avarice and appetite.

Men who are not doing anything to combat the evil he said, may be considered accessories. He spoke of the carelessness and neglect of people

CENSUS MAN GETS TOWN STATISTICS

Representative of Municipality Department of Governmental Bureau Learns Wealth, Debt and Taxation of Charleroi

Representing a department of the United States Bureau of the Census, G. B. Howe of Washington, D. C. was in Charleroi today to gather statistics of Charleroi borough in regard to wealth, debt and taxation. He visited at the office of Borough Clerk Ira L. Nickeson, following the usual plan, and secured the desired information. Neither he nor any other representative of the same department will come again for a decade the gathering of these statistics being an event of every ten years.

The department gathers only statistics of all cities, towns and counties and when they are all gathered and tabulated they are published in bulk form, with attention being separately to counties, cities and boroughs of large population.

Next year manufacturing statistics will be gathered. In this work the manufacturing department makes a cansass every five years. Agricultural statistics, mining statistics and various other statistics will be gathered in turn.

COUNTY GOOD ROADS DAY BEING ARRANGED

Preparations Under Way for Wide Observance of Movement to Secure Improvement of Highways

A "Good Roads" Day "for Washington county" has been inaugurated. The purpose of the movement is that every citizen of the county, on the one special day shall contribute to the repair of the roads in the manner which to him seems best. In Missouri and other states, the people turned out at the calls of their governors and by various methods succeeded in one day in improving roads all over the states.

It is intended to carry out a like movement in this county. A central committee has been organized and a county executive committee is about to organize a local committee in each township and borough where township and borough throughout the county will have a representative on the county executive committee. These men will work with the central committee in making plans for the good roads day.

This movement has already been endorsed by the road supervisors in their annual convention. The township organization will be authorized to decide what roads are to be repaired. The engineers of the state and county highway departments, as well as other civil engineers have volunteered to assist the township committees whenever and wherever assistance is asked. The very least that can be accomplished on our good roads day will be to remove all loose stone, open ditches and culverts, and smooth off the surfaces.

The work will be done by a complete and systematic effort. It is a big undertaking but it will be a lesson in the repair and upkeep in roads which will help in securing better roads of all kinds in the future. The day itself will see miles of roads repaired.

Everyone will be asked to volunteer; every man and woman regardless of occupation—all who are interested in good roads. It will be the aim of the organization to have a corps of volunteers from Washington, Canonsburg, McDonald, Monongahela, Charleroi, Donora, California, Claysville, Burgettstown and other towns organize to work on the roads along side of men from the rural districts.

Every public-spirited citizen in Charleroi is asked to volunteer his or her services in this movement. The call has gone out. You are wanted to do your part on this day—you are neded to make its success. This committee asks you to give your help and your time to this county-wide movement—a movement of every public citizen for the good of all. The spirit is to be "help your neighbor as well as yourself." Men who are unable to do actual work on the roads are asked to contribute to a fund necesary to carry on this work. The women will be asked to prepare food for the workers.

It is hoped every township committee will have made a sufficient number of drags to cover the roads of the township on this day. Morris township already has more than twenty road drags.

Dance Notice

I wish to call attention to all parties holding invitations to my series of dances at Armory Hall, Monongahela. Some of the girls from the Musical Maidens Orchestra were called away on business and it will be impossible for them to get back in time to fill their contract with me. I have engaged the Culp's Military Orchestra from Pittsburg to play for me Wednesday night, April 29. Have also engaged the famous Pascale from the well known Colonial Dancing Academy of Pittsburg to play on Wednesday, May 6. I have gone to quite a little trouble and expense to have these two well known orchestras give my patrons at the Armory a treat. You will hear something in the music line that is well worth hearing, by professional musicians that cannot be duplicated anywhere. Try and attend. If you don't you will certainly miss a good time. Yours very truly.

BROTHERS OF LOCAL MEN IN EXPLOSION

John Scott and Joseph Hockman Numbered Among the Dead

TELEGRAMS RECEIVED

News of Second Worst Mining Disaster in West Virginia's History Received

When the awful explosion of mines Nos. 5 and 6 of the New Rivers Collieries company at Eccles, W. Va., occurred on Tuesday afternoon, two brothers of Charleroi men and other men known here, were included in the list of nearly 200 killed. Harry W. Scott, the real estate dealer of North Charleroi lost his brother, John Scott, and Brent Hockman, a barber at the shop of Joe Irose, lost his brother, Joseph Hockman. Both received telegrams from Eccles this morning telling them of the death toll the disaster had claimed.

With a thunderous detonation, which made the hills quiver and sent the valley folk panic-stricken from their homes, the two mines blew up and according to estimate 248 men were caught under tons of tangled wreckage 550 feet underground. A late message was to the effect that 64 men were taken out alive. From estimates the list will hardly be under 200 and the catastrophe will be the second worst in the history of mining in West Virginia. In some respects the explosion was similar to that at the Cincinnati mine in the Monongahela valley just a year ago.

John Scott, the brother of Harry W. Scott of North Charleroi, was employed as a night foreman. Mr. Scott's father, George Scott was day foreman in one of the mines. As it happened he was not in the mine at the time.

Joseph Hockman, brother of Brent Hockman, was an electrician. The message that came to the Charleroi man today from the wife of his brother was to the effect that there was no hope for him being savew from the wreckage.

Mr. Scott has already left for Eccles from where he received telegrams, and probably Mr. Hockman will go later in the afternoon. Mr. Hockman states he knew two others caught in the explosion. Arthur Marsten and Frank Miller.

Guild Has A Good Program

Society of Washington Avenue Church Holds Interesting Meeting

The Westminster Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church was entertained by Miss Ethel Kendrick, at her home on Washington avenue Tuesday evening. The discussion was led by Miss Stella McDowell, who was assisted by Miss Minnie Elliott. The topic taken up was "Life of Anna of Ave" it being a study of the life of Mrs. Moffatt. A solo was sung by Miss Ethel Kendrick. A letter was read from Miss Bernice Clutter, who is doing missionary work in North Carolina and a gift was received from her that was presented to the society by the president, Miss Elizabeth Elliott. A farewell was said to Miss Stella McDowell, who went today to her home at Washington. One new member was received, Miss Robina Gunderman. The meeting closed with a social hour.

MEN LOSE RAILROAD APPEALS

Two Found Guilty by Court of Blocking Crossings

ONE VERDICT CHANGED

In the suit of the borough of West Brownsville against E. V. Lawler, John McGuire and L. B. Lewis, appeals from summary conviction before the burgess of said borough for violating ordinance No. 43 relative to cars left standing on crossings in said borough, heard before Judge McIlvaine Monday an opinion was handed down Tuesday. The court sustains the judgment of the burgess who found the defendants guilty. The court holds these men were guilty of violating the ordinance. In the case of the borough against J. B. Williams charged with violating an ordinance of the borough, the court reverses the burgess and adjudges Williams not guilty.

Lawler, McGuire and Lewis, trainmen employed on the Monongahela division of the P. R. R. Co. lines, were alleged to have blocked what is known as School house alley crossing and Williams, also a trainman on the division was alleged to have permitted a train to stand more than ten minutes on what is known as Glass house crossing in the borough. The former three, when taken before the burgess of that borough, were fined $10 and costs, aggregating $35.61. Williams was fined $10 and costs, aggregating $12.10.

ALPHA PHI BETAS ENJOY HOUSEWARMING AND SMOKER

Members of the Alpha Phi Beta club enjoyed a smoker and housewarming at their new rooms in the Wertz building Tuesday evening. A feature of the evenings entertainment was the selections rendered by a victrola, which was recently purchased by the club. WHAT FILTH DOES.

In spite of our progress in sanitation and the elimination of filth from the everyday conditions of life this state still pays a large toll in sickness, death and pecuniary loss on account of the accumulation and toleration of filth. Only eight years ago, in 1906, there were 4,000 deaths from typhoid fever in Pennsylvania and some 40,000 cases of sickness from that disease alone. Calculated at the lowest figures at which the economic value of human life can be set and the cost of treatment and the loss of wages incidental to illness in this one year the loss was $24,000,000. Eight years of vigorous work on the part of the state and local health departments have reduced the death rate from typhoid fever 70 per cent, but in 1912 there were 1,300 deaths from this disease and but 12,000 cases. The pecuniary loss in 1912 from typhoid is estimated at $6,200,000.

When it is considered that typhoid fever is a preventable disease and is caused by contamination and filth, it will be seen that we are still far from being a cleanly people. This is evidenced by the "clean-up" days that some of the towns are having, where it is announced with a great degree of pride that several hundred loads of filth and rubbish has been removed. As more of the towns and communities are not having "clean-up" days than are having them, the inference is that the most of the accumulated filth remains from year's end to another. Clean-up days should not be voluntary. They should be enforced. Every settled community should have at least one good cleaning up once a year and then kept clean in the interim.

HELPING PEOPLE TO HOMES

Government loans to working people to enable them to purchase land and erect houses have amounted to $7,019,345 in the last four years, according to a statement issued by the government board of the city of London. The loans were made under authority of the housing and working classes act, since the passage of the housing and town planning act in 1909, says the Washington Reporter.

In addition, the authorities compelled landlords or owners to make 129,620 houses "fit for habitation." That work was done at the cost of the owners themselves. The law confers authority on the government board to compel the demolition of unsafe houses, or the repair of insanitary or otherwise dangerous places.

Loans under consideration at the end of 1913 amounted to $1,897,225, and referred to 1,256 houses.

The number of houses built through the aid of the government in the last four years is 6,255. As an evidence of the growing popularity of the loan law, 3,132 houses were built in 1913, as against 527 in 1910.

This may be Socialistic or communistic or any thing else but it is mighty sensible and satisfying. Here is a reasonable and worth while function of government, a function not generally recognized and one which seems a bit strange to Americans.

While the plan is worked along great city government lines in Great Britain why could it not be operated on small town government lines right here in the United States?

Why would it not be practicable and entirely in line with modern progress for the borough of Washington to have a fund for the purpose of making loans to working people desiring to buy land and build houses? The scheme is not a wild fantasy of a diseased brain. It is a practical business proposition having in view the benefiting of the general run of people, the backbone of any community.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The American Magazine has been offering prizes for the best letters entitled "What I Would Do with a Million Dollars." The three prize-winning letters are published in the April number. An extract from one follows:

"Yes, if I had a million dollars I wouldn't try to turn it into a billion. And I wouldn't go around building libraries and churches, though nobody thinks more highly of those philanthropies than I do. But I'd seek out old couples who have worked hard all their lives, and I'd see that their last years made up for all the hardships of the years gone by—so that they could take leave of life with a song on their lips instead of a moan.

"Then I'd search out deserving young couples, who with their little families are trying to make a start. I'd give them just enough of a lift to keep away that disheartenment which is most despairing when it comes at a time when youth should still be dreaming—just enough of a lift to keep some of the sweetness of life in their hearts, so they wouldn't grow old and cross and crabby, with their dreams all dead."

A group of young women was discussing the Mexican war situation the other evening, when one remarked that the incident that precipiated action on the part of the United States was because Huerta refused to fire a salute of 21 guns.

"Now I just read the other day that he didn't have that many guns in his battery" remarked one of the young ladies. "I think it is real mean to for this country to insist that he fire 21 guns when he hasn't that many to fire."

DECREASE IN BITUMINOUS FATALITIES

A statement issued by the state department of mines shows that the fatal accidents in and about the bituminous coal mines for the three months ending March 31, 1914, numbered 108 as against 126 for the same period in 1913. The inside accidents numbered 98 as against 112 and the accidents on the surface 10 as against 14. Mine Inspector C. P. Byrne of the Twenty-first bituminous district has supplied The Mail with a report.

Of the 98 killed inside during 1914, 56 were killed by falls, 24 by mine cars, 5 by suffocation from gas, 1 by explosives, 2 by premature blasts, 2 by falling into shafts and slopes and 8 by miscellaneous causes.

In 1913, 75 were killed by falls, 24 by cars, 3 by explosives, 1 by a blast and 9 by miscellaneous causes.

During 1914 the inside fatal accidents were 14 less than in 1913. The accidents on the surface were 4 less in number.

John C. Furnman, of Clarion, Pa., says: "After a very severe attack of the grippe my system was in a weakened, nervous and run-down condition. I had no appetite at all. I was obliged to continue with my work, and nothing semed to help me until a friend induced me to take Vinol. I began to note good results from the first bottle. I continued its use and am now sound and well as ever.

In health one cannot relize how depressed a person may become after trying one remedy after another without benefit for such a condition as Mr. Furman was in, or what a relief it is to find help and be restored to health and strength.

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative element of cods' livers without the greasy oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron, that makes Vinol so efficient in building up the weakened run-down system.

ENGLISH SLANG A RIDDLE

Language of Cricket Game as Confusing as American Report of Baseball Game.

Why so much slang should accompany the report of a baseball game is a mystery of America that no Englishman has ever solved. Really, you know, it's quite absurd; and a jolly bit confusing, old chap.

Of course, baseball slang is confusing to the stranger to the game, but an Englishman should never criticise our baseball slang, as Arnold Bennett, W. L. George and many others have done. Crickett slang is just as confusing, just as foolish to stranger ears—and, no doubt, just as essential to the game.

In describing the recent Eton and Harrow match at Lord's, a big event in the cricket season, the London Sphere uses a few phrases that sound like an American sporting page:

"The bat must have come forward crooked and it is not surprising to see the leg stump turning cartwheels.

"Thee best ball sent down in the match. It started well outside the off stump, swerved inward late in its flight, and fairly fixsled off the pitch in its new direction.

"Amory got most of his runs by beating the ball to the boundary in front of square leg, and he was not a bit particular about the line on which the ball was pitched. Several went from outside off stump, but this one pitched on his pads. Oates, behind the wicket, jumped to the leg side to save the possible bye. Eventually Amory tried one cow shot too many and the middle stump went for a walk."

TWO USES FOR WIRE-GLASS

Used Primarily for Fireproofing, It Is Also Said to Be Burglar-Proof.

Wire-glass is said to be both burglar-proof and fireproof. In the first case, the wire netting embedded in its center cannot, it is claimed be broken or cut noiselessly, so that entrance by means of doors or cellar coverings of this material by thieves is rendered difficult, if not impossible. Such glass is, however, more often employed for fireproofing than for other purposes, and it enters largely into the construction of elevator doors, partitions, windows, etc.

One expert, who has tested wire-glass up to 1,700 degrees Fahrenheit, keeping it at this high temperature for half an hour at a time, states that at the first rush of heat the glass crackles, but that the netting holds it together, so that the flame cannot pass through. It will, it seems, hold flame up to the melting point, which is different in different kinds of glass, since some melt at 1,000 degrees and others withstand 2,000 degrees successfully. When a stream of water is turned on wire-glass that has melted almost to the running point, it immediately solidifies, so that it is a material well suited for elevator shafts, where a sudden rush of flame would crack ordinary glass and admit fire to all floors.—Harper's Weekly.

Describing Gout.

A well-known clubman in the smoking room the other evening gave some of his fellow members a picturesque description of the gout.

"You lie in bed," he said, "with the gouty foot stretched out, and you feel as though the sole of it was pressed against the bars of a red-hot fire. In the middle of the furnace is a fellow with a gun loaded to the muzzle with red-hot needles. Presently he fires the gun at your foot and you feel the red-hot needles travel up your leg and come out at the knee, not all at once, but like the animals went into the ark, two by two. When the last couple of needles have finished the course you find yourself ... with fear, and wondering ... ng it will be before the fellow fires the gun again. Presently you find he is under contract to fire it every five minutes and you get ready for the discharge. But you can never be said to get accustomed to it, because the blackguard loads it with a new kind of red-hot needle every time, and sometimes adds half a dozen red-hot corkscrews. That's the gout."

Annual Infliction.

An east Cleveland young man, accompanied by his fiancee, lately called at the home of a mutual friend, where there had been a recent addition to the family. They were greeted at the door by the young wife and mother, who happened to be suffering from a severe cold. After an exchange of conventional commonplaces the young man inquired after the welfare of the baby. And the young matron understood him to be asking about her cold. Hence the following startling reply. "Well, I have one every year about this time, but this is the meanest one I've ever had."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Changing Lead to Gold.

Professor Soddy makes the assertion boldly that it is only a question of application to change lead into gold. He says that while now we can only work with electricity at 100,000 volts, it is only a matter perfecting the method to be able to work at ten times that voltage, when the baser metals can be changed into the more precious. In other words, electricity, when brought to its highest efficiency and application, is the real Philosopher's Stone for which the alchemists of the middle ages searched so long.

GREAT MEN MERELY HUMAN

We Are All Too Apt to Forget Those Traits Which Link Them With Their Fellows.

In spite of the saying that no man is a hero to his own valet, Napoleon's man servant has given us a reverential account of his master from his own point of view, and now, simultaneously, there appear a life of King Edward by his chauffeur and a book about Cecil Rhodes by one of his seven private secretaries. King Edward was not a history maker in the accepted sense of the words, but a peacemaker, and the story of his life is anecdotal rather than epic. That even kings are not exempt from engine trouble and tire trouble and the rest of the ills that flesh is heir to is seen in his chauffeur's description.

Here we have Cecil Rhodes as he was in life—in fatigue uniform, as it were. When they told him that the Dutch in Africa were salt of the earth, he remarked: "I'd like to know where I come in!" He was not unmindful of his own merits. "Creative genius, that's what I've got," he would say. "It's a great thing to have."

But he was not of the number of those who do not recognize an infinitely higher power than their own. "Let a man be a Mohammedan, let him be a Christian, or what you will; let him call himself what he likes, but if he does not believe in a Supreme Being he is no man—he is no better than a dog."

All too soon the impersonal chronicle of the era in which a strong man dwelt, the era profoundly affected by his indomitable will and resolute purpose, forgets those natural traits which link him with his fellows. We behold him larger than life and his "vast shadow glory crowned." It is of peculiar interest to ordinary mortals when he is restored to a truer perspective in relation to the universe, so that he is seen no longer as a demigod, but as a man.

FIRST DAWN OF CIVILIZATION

Workers of the "Stone Age" Brought Their Products to a High Degree of Perfection.

The earliest period of human industry is called the "Stone Age," because in digging about among the remains of the past archeologists find relics made of stone always lower down than relics made of metal.

The ancient savages were marvelous workers in stone. They knew in each region what stone was best for their purpose. They found out where the material abounded under the best conditions to be worked. They planned apparatus for mining and quarrying it. They transported the material for long distances, half-shaped to reduce the weight, and made treaties with hostile tribes to secure the right to visit the coveted spot.

The prehistoric man could tell just how each kind of stone ought to be worked and how it would do its work after it was shaped. To such a state of perfection did they arrive that our most skillful flint workers, aided by the finest tools of today, are not able to reproduce some of the perfect specimens to be found in our museums.

"My Son, My Son!"

A gentleman from abroad, staying in one of the Manchester hotels heard imperious knocking at the door of his room early in the morning after his arrival. He opened, and an elderly gentleman in a state of warm emotion rushed in and embraced him tenderly, with affectionate cries of "My son, my son!"

It was heartily touching, but the supposed son was in honesty compelled to deny the relationship.

The senior argued the point—"You've been eight years in India, and have just come back. You're So-and-So."

The names—Christian and surname—were quite correct, the surname being by no means a common one, but the younger man had not been in India, nor had he a father in England.

The real son was in the hotel, however, and had arrived the night before, like his namesake. Even the registration clerks had not imagined it necessary to anticipate a coincidence when they directed the father to the visitor's room.

Value of Talk.

Talk has the reputation of being the cheapest thing there is. As supply and demand have something if not all to do with values, doubtless the supply of talk is what gives it a bargain counter value.

Things that are cheap lack enduring quality.

If talk were confined to the things done more than to the thing said, it would have a greater value.

Some one asked Edison if he experienced much inconvenience on account of his deafness. He replied that he thanked God for it every day, since it protected him from the distracting effect of other people's talk. He could thus live his own life, think his own thoughts, do his own work in his world of silence.

Finger Prints of Babies.

At Spokane, the finger prints of all newly-born children are taken upon the certificate of birth. By this means, the identity of a citizen can be traced from the cradle to the grave. If that method were resorted to at foundling asylums, when unfortunate mothers leave their babies, there would always remain a means of identification. A recent case has called attention to this class of human griefs.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Charleroi Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence

This Charleroi citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Robert Coulter, 520 Third St., Charleroi, Pa., says: "One of the family had the measles when he was five years old, which left him with weak kidneys. The trouble was most distressing at night and there seemed to be an inability to control the kidney secretions. I had often mended and I was induced to get a supply at Piper's Pharmacy. The one who used this remedy was soon benefited and we have hopes of a permanent cure."

Her Hopes Realized.

On January 30, 1914, Mrs. Coulter said: "I willingly confirm the statement I gave praising Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago. Doan's Kidney Pills made a complete cure for one of our family."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Coulter recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Solidarity

EVERYONE has not agreed to all the demands of street car employees. But when they demanded recognition of their union, and the right to unite for mutual benefit, then a united voice sounded forth with one accord, not only commending immediate and positive demands, but willing to go the limit backing them up. This is real solidarity and the thing that makes the working class great. We differ in opinions but we are one in purpose. The people of this valley are no more loyal to their class than the membership of the Charleroi Progressive Co-operative Association are to our methods of doing business, with all extra expenses eliminated, for while the population of our towns has doubled in the last 10 years, our membership has grown from 25 to 949 members.

OUR system and success is the wonder and envy of all our competitors. Right is might, and will always have loyal support, whether a union or a Co-operative Association.

CHARLEROI HAS 11,185 PEOPLE, BY LATE RETURNS

The census bureau at Washington, D. C., has issued a bulletin giving the estimated population, July 1, 1914 of all cities and towns which had 8,000 or more population in 1910. Charleroi, which had 9,615 in 1910, is now estimated to have 11,185. Monessen is estimated to have a population of 18,752, while that of Washington is given at 20,702.

By July 1 United States will have a population of 109,021,000 according to estimates made public by the census bureau. This is an increase of over 7,000,000 in a little more than four years. In the boundaries of the continental United States on July 1, there will be 98,781,000 people. Only one state Iowa shows a decrease and it was slight. The largest increases were in New York, Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania, the latter growing from 7,665,000 in 1910 to 8,246,000 in 1914.

WELFARE MEETING

in respect of what he termed an evil stating that an ounce of prevention was worth a pound of cure. Rev. McKee declared himself to be of the opinion that it was stupid to build almshouses, jails and so forth to care for that which is the product of a licensed system. In closing he offered proof that high taxation is caused by the liquor traffic.

Attorney Chalfant spoke briefly, outlining the work of the United Temperance league. He said that the people are in dead earnest and that they are not campaigning for 1914,but that they were starting a war to the finish. Both men and women are working he said, and stated that he anticipated that the liquor traffic would be banished within three years.

Rev. Richards plead for right voting to elect the right men to office. He made announcements, stating that another meting will be held in Charleroi, to be addressed by well known men.

An enjoyable program was carried out. Warren Kinder, tenor, sang "The Lost Chord" Sullivan, and was in good voice. Miss Ethel Barth, soprano, delighted with her rendition of "My Laddie" Thayer. Miss Helen Palmer sang to the delight of the audience, "When Papa Comes Home Sober," and the W. C. T. U. quartet rendered in good style one selection, "Bells of Prohibition." The invocation was said by Rev. E. N. Duty, of the First Christian church and the benediction by Rev. J. T. Hackett of the First Presbyterian church.

At Canonsburg addresses were made by District Attorney Richard G. Miller, Rev. H. N. Cameron and Attorney John C.Judson, of Washington. At Claysville John W. Warrick, Alvin Donnan, Esq., and Rev. W. J. Hogue spoke.

CARS AND BUSSES BOTH OPERATING; QUIETNESS REIGNS

Cars are running on their regularly scheduled time on the Westside Electric Street Railways line and the Webster, Monessen, Belle Vernon and Fayette City Street Railways line, according to D. C. Callaghan, the superintendent. This was about the only statement that he had to make today concerning the trouble occasioned by conductors and motormen quitting.

The statement that the conductors and motormen made through their committee was to the effect that they were making arangements for the operation of permanent motor truck service and that they would have everything arranged in tip top shape for caring for their pasengers within the next few hours.

STARTLING FRONTIER FILM AT THE LYRIC

"The Battle of Elderbush Gulch" a thrilling and sensational story of frontier life is the chief feature at the Lyric theatre tonight. "The Uphill Climb" is another good picture. A sorrowing mother impresses upon her ward the fact that her son must be redeemed through her and makes her dying wish that the girl marry the young man. How this is carried out makes a striking and absorbing story. The Pathe weekly will also be shown tonight.

FIRST PLAYER REPORTS; THEY CALL HIM RUBE

The first baseball player to hit Charleroi, excepting of course Manager Charles M. O'Day, is William Johnson, who got tired of his home town of Middletown, Ohio, and hired hitherward. William is more familiarly known by his intimates as Rube, and he is a left handed pitcher with everything in his favor, his personal appearance. Johnson played with President Wreath when the latter was located in the Maine State league in 1909, and he was a star then Last spring Johnson was tried out by Portland, Ore., of the Pacific Coast league, but became ill and was forced to leave.

Christ. Kurtz, a first baseman and outfielder, has written asking for a tryout, and it is not improbable that Manager O'Day will tell him to come on.

For Old-Fashioned Rooms.

If you have a room hung with the imitations of Old English chintzes invest in one of the lovely fruit dishes lined with chintz.

These dishes are made in Royal Doulton and they are decorated in some of the old chintz designs—the sort with gay plumaged birds and stiff, bright flowers rollicking over a light ground to their hearts' content.

Some of the dishes are big, rather shallow bowls, with a band of openwork at the top. Some of them are of the old-fashioned, high-stemmed type. Any of them would make a charming addition to the old-fashioned room hung in quaint chintz.
